WORKSOURCE CENTER RFP DEADLINE ARRIVES

(Los Angeles) More than two dozen agencies returned Request for Proposal (RFP) documents, on Thursday, December 19, 2013, to meet a deadline for contractors vying to run WorkSource Centers for the City of Los Angeles. The centers are administered by L.A.'s Economic and Workforce Development Department (EWDD).

The Mayor and Council are looking to revamp the WorkSource Center program in order to ensure a job force that is ready for careers in high demand industries such as healthcare, logistics, biotech, entertainment and construction. Once the system is reworked job seekers will enroll in the program to receive WorkSource Center services that will be located citywide. Services will include access to job listings, job training, job referrals, education assessment and access to technology and programs that will make the search easier and services more accessible.

The process to select new contract operators is ongoing until the final awards on July 1, 2014.
